

Oxygen-Saturation Targets for Critically Ill Adults Receiving Mechanical Ventilation

A pragmatic, cluster-randomized, cluster-crossover trial

October 24, 2022

CONCLUSION

There was no difference in the number of ventilator-free days among critically ill adults receiving invasive mechanical ventilation when a lower, intermediate, or higher Spo2 target was used. Additionally, there were no differences in the secondary outcomes including 28-day mortality.